ABOUT BUILDX

Company Overview

BuildX is a Massachusetts-based residential construction company specializing in custom stick-built accessory dwelling units (ADUs). Founded in 2022 by Buz Artiano, a 40-year construction veteran who has completed more than $450 million in residential projects, BuildX built the first ADU permitted under Plymouth, MA's 2023 bylaw. The company currently manages approximately six active ADU builds at any given time across 40 cities in Southeastern Massachusetts. Every BuildX ADU is framed on-site by company crews — no prefab, no modular, no shipping containers.

INDUSTRY CONTEXT

The ADU Landscape in Massachusetts

Massachusetts Affordable Homes Act (2024)

The most significant housing legislation in Massachusetts in decades. Among its provisions, the act directs the state to establish clear regulations enabling accessory dwelling units on single-family lots statewide.

760 CMR 71.00 — Effective January 31, 2025

The implementing regulations establish that ADUs are allowed by-right on single-family lots across all Massachusetts municipalities. Owner-occupancy requirements have been preempted by state law.

Housing Crisis Context

Massachusetts needs hundreds of thousands of additional units to meet demand. ADUs add housing within existing neighborhoods without changing neighborhood character — flexible space for aging parents, adult children, rental income, or home offices.

BuildX's Position

BuildX operates across 40 cities in Southeastern Massachusetts and has navigated permitting in multiple municipalities. Founder Buz Artiano is available as a subject matter expert for interviews, panels, and municipal presentations.
